

SouthWare NetLink™ is a revolutionary tool that lets you provide simple and controlled browser-based network access to your company data files. It can be used for Internet, intranet, and extranet applications.

SouthWare NetLink™ works with existing technology in the SouthWare Excellence Series™ to provide a comprehensive eBusiness solution. You may easily publish any of your business data to authorized users and receive data back from them that is validated before updating your files. You can customize every aspect of your eBusiness site, and there are many features you can customize yourself without hiring expensive help.

For high-volume processing of business information you get the power, speed, control, and built-in sophistication of SouthWare's mature business applications running on your internal system. Your day-to-day work is not hindered by the limitations of browser-based access.

You and your partners can use Web browsers to access selected data and send data to be updated using the "stateless" transaction-based mode of intranets and the Internet. You are working with the same data as the standard applications, so your data for all users is always as current as the last change.
